

Illinois State Comptroller Cooks with St. Charles East Students

In 2013, the late Illinois State Comptroller Judy Barr Topinka, and Chicago City Clerk Susana Mendoza began the Culinary Kids Initiative in an effort to fight childhood obesity and promote the benefits of a healthy diet and physical fitness.

Now that she is Illinois State Comptroller, Susana Mendoza is continuing the program and advocating for a healthy lifestyle through visits to local schools. On September 12, Comptroller Mendoza visited Tracy Stewart's culinary prep entrepreneur class at St. Charles East High School and joined the students as they prepared a healthy lunch.

The kitchen was full of fall smells as students prepared squash soup, healthy macaroni and cheese with chicken, and bruschetta with goat cheese, figs and olive oil. Corporate Executive Chef Kevin Wassler assisted students with the meal preparation and talked about his journey to becoming a chef with the Nestle Corporation.

Comptroller Mendoza told students that they will have to make many choices during their lifetime, and one of those is what kinds of food they put in their body. She emphasized that food not only makes arms and legs move but also fuels the brain power that students need every day to succeed in school.

Former Chicago Bull Forward Mickey Johnson spoke about the benefits of including physical activity as part of their daily lives.

Thank you Comptroller Mendoza for visiting St. Charles East High School.

Wild Rose Fifth Grade Teacher uses Grant Funds to Purchase Flexible Seating

In the spring of 2017, Wild Rose fifth grade teacher Kerri Johnson received a grant from the St. Charles Education Foundation to purchase flexible seating for her classroom.

Flexible seating includes stability cushions, ball chair, exercise balls, a standing desk with a swing bar, flat desks that can be used for working on the floor and yoga mats. Mrs. Johnson did research on the impact that flexible seating can have on student learning. She found that, because students learn in different ways and have different styles and needs, their ability to have an active role in discovering what flexible seating options work best for them helps them learn.

Izzy, a student in Mrs. Johnson's class said she likes the choices she has for seating in the classroom because, "you're more comfortable and can focus more on your work, and get more stuff done. It's fun!"

Foreign Exchange Students Come to St. Charles

Nine students from across the globe have descended on both high schools. A reception was held in their honor earlier this week at St. Charles North High School. Five students are visiting from Taiwan and will spend two weeks at each of the District 303 high schools. They said they have enjoyed going to classes at North this week and like the cafeteria food and choices very much. St. Charles North High School is hosting four other students from Japan, Columbia, Germany and Thailand for the entire school year. In addition to their studies, students are experiencing the culture in and around the Midwest.
