13th Avenue Carpool Lane

In response to the cold and inclement weather, more parents have been driving their students to and from school, which has increased the traffic at our 13th Avenue carpool lane. In order to maintain a safe and efficient arrival and dismissal process, please take time to review the included notes:

- Parents should remain in their cars when in the carpool lane.
- Students should only enter a vehicle that is stopped and in the carpool lane.
- If parents want to meet their child outside of the school, they should park on Rita (it is highly recommended that you use Rita Avenue west of the school, not the portion of Rita Avenue that runs behind the school) or Edward Avenue and use the crosswalk to cross 13th Avenue. Vehicles that are parked on the portion of Rita that runs behind the school can add to the congestion and confusion, especially when dealing with snowbanks, etc.
- As far as Rita Avenue (running behind our school), I've noticed this line is continuing to grow. A few reminders--Vehicles should not block the crosswalk, as we have numerous walkers who cross Rita Avenue and need the crosswalk to do so. I might suggest vehicles access 13th Avenue further south than Rita. I've received feedback from transportation that buses are being delayed because they can not make the turn onto Rita due to cars being double-parked.
- Please be patient, be a good neighbor, drive slowly, and remember that student safety is the number one priority.
- In the morning, if you do need to get out of your vehicle due to your child being unable to unbuckle themselves, etc. I recommend you use the drop off lane in the front of the school, which is significantly less congested.

Outdoor Recess—Our Thinking on When to Stay In

This week has brought us significant wintry conditions, which has impacted several aspects of our school day. When it comes to the weather, please review the information below to gain insight into when our students go out for recess versus staying indoors.

- Students will remain indoors if icy or wet conditions are present that create an unsafe environment. For example, our students stayed indoors on Tuesday due to extremely icy conditions on the asphalt.
- Students will also remain indoors if the wind chill or “real feel” temperature is below zero.
- Only students that are dressed in snow gear (specifically snow boots) will be allowed in the field areas when snow is on the ground. If students are not wearing snow boots, they will stay on the asphalt or playground areas.

Kindergarten Registration

Kindergarten registration is scheduled for February 6th between the hours of 9:30-2:30. If you plan on registering a kindergarten student for the 2019-2020 school year, but are unable to attend on February 6th, feel free to stop in the main office any day after February 6th to register.

Have a great weekend!

Jarrold Buxton, Principal

From the LRC

Next week, we will be going into our second week of reading The Miraculous Journey of Edward Tulane. First grade teachers have been re-reading the chapters and discussing as a class. With this text, there are many opportunities to really talk with your children and help develop vocabulary and comprehension! Students should be ready to answer a trivia question when they come to school on Tuesday! Don't forget, next Friday will be Decades Day - dress as your favorite decade.

DID YOU KNOW... A student that reads at home 5 minutes a day will hear 282,000 words per year, will have read 212 hours by 6th grade and will likely score better than 50% of their peers on standardized tests.

Ten Tips for Reading Aloud

1. Match the reading style to the book – While there are some books that work well with a quieter, deadpan style, a book like Betty G. Birney's The World According to Humphrey works well with a playful style and lots of enthusiasm.
2. How to make time – Prioritize in order to make the daily reading an important part of your routine. Sometimes this means putting off a chore, and sometimes it may mean not watching a television show. You can read to your child at bedtime or fit it in between other activities. It only takes about 15 minutes to read each chapter.
3. Punch vocabulary – Make the language in a story more interesting by choosing a word in each sentence and doing something more with it: enunciate it, whisper it, elongate it, emphasize it! It will help capture your child's interest and enliven the prose.
4. Pause – This is one of three tips that help reset your child's attention span and can be used to heighten drama or suspense or emotional impact. In this case, pay special attention to punctuation marks: every comma and period, hyphen and set of parentheses. Some sentences are written with an intentional pause to get the listener's attention.
5. Slow down – This is another tip that helps to reset your child's attention span, and it also heightens drama, suspense, and emotion; however, it is not the same as pausing. Slowing down means adjusting the pace of a sentence or a paragraph. Your listener will notice immediately.
6. Whisper – Everyone knows the whisper effect when you want to make someone pay even closer attention. This third tip will help your child to become more focused. It also heightens drama and suspense and can make the characters really "pop".

These three tips – Pause, Slow Down, & Whisper – are the true essence of effective reading aloud.

7. Accents and voices – Borrow from everywhere to mimic different voices. Your kids don't care how silly you sound, only that the voices in a dialogue are different and distinct, bringing the characters to life. Also, give each character some identifying trait or mannerism to make it easier to distinguish their voices.
8. Ask questions – Use the opportunity of reading a book together to ask questions before, during, and after. This serves multiple purposes: to rehearse or remember characters or plot developments, to explore moral or ethical questions that may arise, and to make associations with other books and media.
9. Quiz them yourself – This is not to make reading like schoolwork; instead, it helps to serve as a memory cue. Kids love showing off their knowledge, having a reason to pay even closer attention, owning a book or story thoroughly and in detail. Pretty soon, they'll be asking you questions!
10. Permit another activity – Kids will get distracted - for a good reason: because they've made an association and are pursuing it. When pausing and whispering and slowing down aren't enough, it's okay to let them color or draw or doodle - or braid their hair or wash the dishes - to let their restless minds re-focus on your story.
